Chimney part 1	The first meter of the chimney—the section directly connected to the AVIN—is made from a thicker material and is a heavier pipe. Thus, more expensive. This segment is intentionally designed this way, as it absorbs the most heat and carries the greatest thermal load. It's the core of the chimney's performance and safety	2 737,58	2 mm wall thickness grade 304 stainless steel inner tube. insulated, and clad with 0.7mm thick grade 430BA stainless steel - with heat control damper - 180 O/D
Chimney remaining	The rest of the chimney is lighter and thinner, and this is intentional. These parts primarily serve heat flow, smoke extraction, and ventilation, and do not need to handle the same heat intensity. By maintaining this balance, we ensure optimal functionality without unnecessary weight or cost.	2 508,79	0.5 thick/Grade 304SS seamless inner/insulated and clad with 304 SS - 180 O/D

Optional Grade 304 castors - Additional cost 3500
